WHEELING, MAY 2, 1894.

Tammany's Dies Irie.

Now that the Republican legislature of New York has adjourned after having accomplished a great amount of reform legislation designed to remove that turgent tumor, Tammany Hall, from the body politic, and to arrest the cancerous infamy of its long and uninterrupted career of crime, the Tiger is showing its claws and exposing its teeth in a menacing manner towards Gov-erner Flower. The fiat has gone forth from the bosses and their mendacious tools warning the governor against approving these measures, and threatening his political death and unresurrectional interment if he does. The entire power of this leprous body is being concentrated at Albany to over-awe and intimidate Governor Flower and bend him to its will. Will they succeed?

The measures passed by the legisla-ture and which are objectionable to Tammany are commended by the entire Democratic press of New York city, the chamber of commerce, board of trade, real estate exchange and the almost unanimous voice of the people of the state. Dare the governor hesitate or turn a deaf car to the popular clamor? Will be risk the righteous indignation and contempt that will meet him at every turn in vetoing these reform bills? It is certainly a critical time in the history of New York city and state, and on the stroke a pen hangs the responsibility for good or evil government for the years to come.

Serious as the situation may be the signs of the times indicate that the day of wrath for Tammany is close at hand The filehing hands of its thieves will soon be palsied, the plunderers in high places driven from the temple by the dash of public scorn, and the retribution of an incensed people will condemn the organization to such punishments its crimes deserve. The Tammany of today has out-Tweeded Tweed, and the obloquy that covers that name will eventually enshroud the more guilty and venally corrupt politicians who have followed in his footsteps.

The rift in the clouds that have so long covered the malfeasance of the office-holders of the wicked ring is the crusade which the New York World is carrying on against Tammany. It has turned on the strong search light of inveetigation, and there isn't a corner or nook in the career of the beneficiaries of Tammany that is escaping the focus of its penetrating glare. No Democrat doubts the orthodoxy of the World, the sincerity of the Times or the enruestness of the conservative Herald. They are all leagued in a war of annihilation against Tammuny. In a recent issue the World devoted an entire page to the biography of one of the leaders of this ring of spoilation, Po-lico Justice Farney Martin, who is a brother of Police Commissioner Martin. It proved him to have been the companion of burglars and the consort of murderers; that at one time he was a half owner of a tough saloon with the notorious "Red Leary," the bank robber, for a partner. This same police justice was indicted for bribery, and only escaped conviction through a technicality, the plea of the statute of limitations. Yet he sits on the bench of New York city through the favor of Tammany as the reward for his services in perpetuating its power by the nemethods practiced by the striped cubs of Boss Croker.

These disclosures have made a deep impression on the conservative Demo cratic element, as witness what Richard Watson Gilder has to say:

Watgon Gilder has to say:

"I have read with unspeciable hundling the hographics of leading Tantanay Jengers to-day's and last sunday's World. They can make more evident wint we all variety kne before that the city is a proy, to a Jarge extent of a band of toughs sund-irminals. Stame me the cowardly or solids 'respeciables' who a pilesce in this interpolation and let their many which fraudulently pretends to be political, by which is committed for shouls, and for their many which fraudulently pretends to be political, by with soon and conductation and in their many which fraudulently pretends to be political, by with soon and conductations are discovered by with soon and conductations are and every decision and conductations are and every decision of a sunday of the contract of the present organization if thereighly exposed, and many conductation is the contract of the state of the sunday of the collection of the state of the sign of covering of this state into the olly involved and contract of the state of the sign of the state of the state

Are not these words signs of the awakening conscience of the papele? Was it not a knowledge of the crimes of Tammany and the malignity of its frauds against the ballot-box and its venulity municipal affairs that Congressman Dumphy to withdraw his name from the organization? And one may well believe that it required a great deal of moral courage to consummate the act. There are many encouraging omens: dissensions are creeping into the cabal, and when its high crimes and misdemeanors shall have been avenged by outraged decency and the law loving class it will meet with the execration it has so honestly carned.

THE United States senate in these piping times of Democratic supremacy has been turned into a brokers' shop, the members paying more attention to the tape than the tariff.

A terrible warning against second marriages comes from a bamiet near Wilkesbarre, Pa. Cornelius Boyle, a hard working miner, lost his wife, and he was left alone with four small child-Cornelius was not a deft hand in caring for his children, and two months after his wife was buried he married a beautiful girl of seventeen. Matters progressed smoothly enough for the youthful stepmother until the spirit of the first wife became restless, and as she had been homely and her successor was very handsome she no doubt resolved to annoy the second Mrs. Boyle as much as she could.

According to the materialized Mrs. Boyle the spiritualized Mrs. Boyle paid her a visit one day when she was correcting one of the children. The apparition was ghostly enough, and as badly frightened as the living Mrs. Boyle was she had strength enough to ask what was wanted. And the vision in the cerements of the tomb is said to bave admonished her in a sepulchral tone to "treat my children well," and then vanished. There were several subsequent visits, and the living Mrs. Boyle finally concluded that she did not care to keep up the acquaintance any longer, and the husband showing no disposition to entertain his angel wife unawares, they moved into another house, which they hope the ghostly Mrs. Boyle will be unable to locate.

It would appear that the present Mrs. Boyle would rather suffer from these visits than fly to the ills she knows not of. Would she rather Mr. Boyle would remark across the table, "my dear these biscuits are not nearly so good as my first wife used to bake." Or, "my first wife did so and so," "there was no one" who could beat Eliza making soup. There are many things more distracting to a second wife than ghostly visitations from the first. The ghost is to be preferred every time.

WE have with us this morning Col. Galvin and his associate mechanics. who were thrown out of work through the incompetency of the Democratic party. They are entitled to all the sympathy their appearance has in-

An Object Lesson.

When the last presidential campaign was on every Republican speaker who spoke in Wheeling and the surrounding industrial towns warned his hearers of the danger of restoring the Democratic free trade, industry destroying party to power. He pictured the distress that was sure to follow any un-wise tinkering with the protective tariff, and foretold the paralyzation of business and the stagnation of trade.

But the cry went up for a change. The Democratic speakers echoed the wail of the party press. Their misguided hearers believed in their sophistry and voted for a change. They got it, and yesterday these very men who cast their ballots for Cleveland saw one of the effects of that change in the march of the deluded pilgrims through the streets of Wheeling.

If there had been no tariff agitation there would have been no hobos camp-ing on the Island last night. The Democratic party, that party so prodigal of promises, which horoscoped a season of plenty and prosperity, has been in power fifteen months and they have accomplished-nothing. Yes, they have; they have accomplished the great feat of tearing down where they prom-ised to build; they have destroyed where they gave bond to multiply.

Furthermore this same party is divided on the prospectus that was issued by the Chicago convention, and is today neither negative nor positive on the tariff question. What a spectacle it presents to the country! What imnotence and incapacity it displays when clothed with power!

SECRETARY CARLISLE hopes the tariff bill will be so patched in the senate as to meet the endorsement of all factions of the Democratic party. Whether it comes up to that requirement or not, Mr. Secretary, the history of Democra cy shows that its leaders will swallow anything when it comes to a vote. It is generally safe to doubt the sincerity of any Democrat who publicly proclaims his opposition to any measure of his porty.

Coxey's wife says that her husband's stone quarry has extended its business wonderfully since the general has been making a monkey of himself on the road. This is the key to the agitation, Coxey cares naught for his deluded followers. He is doing everything for the glory and pecuniary advancement of himself.

The divorced wife of the leader of the Commonweal army promises to make it warm for her quondam hushand for enticing her daughter to Washington to adorn his triumphal catry into the capitol. The vanity of nan in this case was stronger than filial obedience.

Ir would be interesting to hear Senator Turpie before as well as after taking. The bile cordial and venom pills he took before his attack on Senator Abfrich do not appear in the pharmacopesia of senatorial courtesy.

A PARCE called "Dr. Darkburst" has been put on the boards of one of the New York theatres. This fresh attempt to ridicule Dr. Parkhurst, for that is what the piece aims to do, will not weaken him or deter the society he represents from pushing to conviction the law breakers of Gotham.

Col. Galvin, in his peregrinations through the streets of Wheeling yester day afternoon, may have noticed enough men on the sidewalk out of work to make five armies of his size. But these men have sense enough to know that the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow is a barren ideality.

These are no summer insects on Capt. Pannell Garden, of the capitol police force. He had his Wheeling with him when he quietly marched Coxey down the capitol steps which the commonwealer had ascended with so much assurance and confidonce.
